Though Aamir will be shooting on Sunday, but he had a good plan in his mind. Aamir's mother is very possessive and particular about her kitchen and the way things are kept there. So now that Aamir is doing well in his life now, he would let his mother get the kitchen redone the way she wants it to.

'I wanted to do this on her birthday but now I think that Mother's day would be the right day for it', says Aamir.

He recalls his younger days when his father used to tell them about Mother's day and used to get lovely flowers for his mom. 'I want to pas this on to my children. They need to know the value of a mother in their life' says Aamir.

He also has a plan for his wife, who is expecting a second baby soon, on behalf of his daughter. He will have his two and a half year daughter write something for her mother. 'I will try and make her write something even a T standing for Thank you or M for mother will do', informs Aamir.

And how can he forget his mother in law? He plans to take both his mother and mother -in -law for dinner in the evening after she return from shoot.
