Corporate rivalry and politics are a potent combination when they mix up with fraternal problems.

Wakf property controversy going on relating to the new dream house of Reliance's Mukesh Ambani met with an anti climax today. Today's incidents brought to light some more interesting aspects of the entire wakf controversy and puts it in a completely new perspective.

Anil Ambani's friend - Samajwadi party leader Amar Singh arranged a rally to embarrass Mukesh Ambani in this controversy. Samajwadi party issued a press release yesterday saying there will be a rally of 8000 students who will march and collect donations for giving to Mukesh Ambani as he has taken the alleged wakf property on which an orphanage is supposed to have been built. However, when people came to know that the so called Wakf property belonged to Madhavarao Scindia and was sold recently to a trust and it is not a wakf property, they decided not to make their children instrument of this blackmail and fight between two rival brothers Anil and Mukesh Ambani. Rally was to be organised from Govandi, Geeta Vikas School.

Today, at 2.30 PM, when the media crews from several media agencies went to the site, they realised that there are not more than 10 students there. In fact, there were more media people than the number of protesting students.

After going for a few meters, the rally was abruptly called off after the organisers realised that parents of children have seen through the game of corporate rivalry between two brothers being given communal colours which none of them want to participate.

When asked to the Maulana leading the rally of less than few students that when there are several properties in dispute on wakf, why Mukesh Ambani is being targetted by Samjawadi party? He answered that They are not interested any inquiry which is instituted by government & wakf board. They will fight for this land without knowing facts that original owners are Madhav Rao Scindia Trust As original owner.

When he was further probed why he was using his community angel to help the friend of Samajwadi party head honcho to achieve his corporate objectives, he chose to stay silent.

The rally was finally over within 10 minutes and all children were whisked away some of who were crying and wanting to go home as soon as possible.
