AllianceTek Inc, an IT solutions firm that provides leading edge software development and technology consulting services, announces today that it is opening a new development center in India. The company provides clients with application development, application management, legacy system migration, offshore product development, and user interface development.

The new facility, which will be ready to open its doors by the end of March, will initially house a staff of fifteen. AllianceTek plans to have a workforce of 50 individuals in its new office by year-end. The facility is located in Rajkot in the state of Gujarat - considered to be the second most industrialized state in the country, and the one with most advanced infrastructure.

The new office will provide key development and quality assurance support to AllianceTek's US clients. Additionally, the new team will act as the primary managers for AllianceTek's partner vendors in India. Working directly with the company's US-based project managers and client services group, this additional offshore staff will help the firm continue to provide the highest level of customer satisfaction to its growing client base. AllianceTek will couple the work of its internal development team with that of its onshore and offshore alliance partners to offer optimal custom IT solution capabilities in one seamless package.

'The expertise of AllianceTek lies in offering custom-built IT business solutions that reduce costs and improve productivity. We help bring the strategic advantage of software outsourcing and offshore software development to the doorstep of our customers,' said Damian Petrone, VP of Business Development.

AllianceTek provides an onshore client service and project management team along with overseas developers and designers to deliver the maximum benefit to its clients.

The company understands the increasing technology demands of US businesses and delivers cost-effective business solutions. The firm will continue to position itself as a leading business solutions provider for current and future clients.

- END - AllianceTek delivers comprehensive and cost-effective IT business solutions through the development of standalone and web-based software applications, business process outsourcing, and multimedia design and creation.
