Worldwide, ING Direct the Netherlands based financial institution has launched many innovative products to assist their customers. ING DIRECT Spain, went live with Public Computing kiosks in March of this year. ING Customers can now engage in online banking, make payment transaction and close insurance contracts through the kiosk terminals.

"The successful launch of X6 kiosks at ING DIRECT's Spain offices very much confirms the growth path we see in banking and insurance applications for self-service technology" said Peter te Lintel Hekkert, Director of Sales. "This is the perfect kiosk for ING DIRECT banking environment as it is elegant whilst being exceptionally robust. Moreover this project included the use of the X6 sit-down model that is readily wheel-chair accessible".

Peter te Lintel Hekkert, adds: 'Understanding local market requirements is at the core of our existence, no matter if this is through one of our Value Added Resellers or a local Public Computing office. The Spanish Public Computing team has done a marvellous job with this project.'

ING DIRECT Spain's successful implementation will continue to build the business relationship between Public Computing and the various ING DIRECT country organizations.
