RG Stone Urology & Laparoscopy Hospital, the first and only super specialty urology hospital in India today launched their first center in Gurgaon at Neelkanth Hospital, Haryana. The centre was inaugurated by Dr. B.S. Bansal, "Father of Lithotripsy" in India.

RG Stone Urology & Laparoscopy Hospital epitomizes commitment to deliver the best healthcare in Urology. The center is launched in partnership with Neelkanth Hospital, whereby RG Stone Urology & Laparoscopy Hospital will conduct the specialized Urology and Laparoscopic surgeries. With an initial investment of Rs. 4.5 Crore, the centre will provide SIEMENS Lithotripsy, 100watt Holmium Laser, Flexible scopes and a team of dedicated full time specialized doctors headed by a Chief Urologist Dr. Anshuman Agarwal and Laparoscopic Surgeon Dr. Ajay Sharma. The launch was part of the first phase of expansion plan announced by the organization in the last year.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. B. S. Bansal, Chairman said, "Having realized the need of such specialty services in other part of the country, we decided to start new centers with state -of-the-art technology in other part of the country. Today, we are very delighted to offer our specialized urology and laparoscopy treatment to the people of Gurgaon." To this Dr. Himanshu Garg, Chairman, Neelkanth Hospital added, "We at Neelkanth Hospital are indeed very glad that RG Stone Urological and Laparoscopy Hospital has come up with this unique facility in hospital, wherein they have made large investments in the latest, cutting edge technology equipment, backed by highly qualified and trained doctors and allied staff, for the first time in Gurgaon. I should say that the investment in equipment and the experience of RG Stone Urological and Laparoscopy Hospital doctors complements the high tech facilities already existing in Neelkanth Hospital."
