Faridabad, Haryana, June 3, 2008 /India PRwire/ -- IIRA Technologies pioneer in the field of Open Source from the last 8 years added one more feather in their cap of excellence by migrating one more SME to open source and as calculated the organisation saved around 60% on operating cost. The organization actually wants a robust, scalable, and secured operating system which will not disturb its existing set-up and can port its current proprietary software easily. The company also want an open source Customer Relationship Management (CRM)software, Content Management Software(CMS) and automated help desk.

After studying the scenario we deployed Sugar CRM for customer relationship management, Mambo for CMS, and a very advance Helpdesk on very reliable Operating system Xandros. The main strength of teh OS lies in the interoperability of Xandros with other proprietary software.

The after deployment services is the key to migrate the system through IIRA Technologies as till date there is Zero Error report od all the deployment we processed.
