

Impetus to host Open Source Community Un-conference "OSS Camp"

Congregates the best brains in the software industry - PHP, MySQL, Apache, Web 2.0 to be part of the OSS Camp

New Delhi, Delhi, September 6, 2007 /India PRwire/ -- Want to know what's in and what's out in the technology world? Have a desire to contribute to the community or learn from others' experience? Want to share you views, ideas with the best brains from the software industry? Then get ready for the OSS Camp, Delhi, India's biggest Open Source Community Un-conference. Impetus Technologies (www.impetus.com), the pioneers in outsourced product development and engineering services will host the second electrifying and exhilarating community-driven event, 'OSS Camp' at its Noida campus on September 8 and 9, 2007. OSS Cube (www.osscube.com), a leading Open Source Consulting, Development and Training organization, is also supporting this event.

OSS Camps (<http://www.osscamp.in>) are Barcamps focusing on Open Source Technologies with demos; code hacking, discussions, presentations, and interactions with the participants. With the desire of learning by sharing and to share own work with the community, more than 250 technology experts from across the country are expected to participate in OSS Camp, Delhi. The participants can range from Senior Technology Professionals, Directors of Technology & CIOs, Product Evangelists, Technology Teachers, People from Media, and Students. For the first time in India, camps such as PHP Camp, MySQL Camp, Apache Camp, Web 2.0 Camp, etc are being organized, as part of this OSS Camp. OSS Camp is also part of itinerary of famous "Luck of Seven" (<http://luckofseven.com/>), an open-source journey around the world documenting free culture, social innovators and global change. Noel Hidalgo of Luck of Seven (from New York) will be part of this Camp.

OSS Camps are not-for-profit events with free participation cost. It is a platform for various communities to come together and collaborate on open source technologies and tools. The first Open Source Community Un-conference "OSS Camp," was organized on March 24, 2007 in Mumbai.

So get ready to partake in the Open Source Revolution and make sure you attend the congregation of the best technology minds in the industry! Register today at <http://www.osscamp.in>

Notes to Editor

About Impetus:

Headquartered in Cupertino (CA), Impetus Technologies provides outsourced software product design, R&D and related services to leading global software product companies. Impetus has been involved with hundreds of product launches over its decade-long association with its start-up and enterprise class clients.

Impetus works on cutting-edge technologies to develop a variety of next-generation products for a range of vertical domains. From enterprise applications that optimize supply chains and credit portfolios, to solutions for the emerging rich media and digital content verticals; and from products for wireless networks and mobile handsets to software for network forensics and communication monitoring, Impetus' emphasis on continuous innovation adds significant value to its clients' technology initiatives.

For more information, visit www.impetus.com or write to info@impetus.com.

For more information, please contact:

Anika Sahni

Executive